

Barwick's Ordinary Tavern: the Lost County Court of Caroline County, Maryland

To the tune of "Darlin' Clementine," Waltz or DUDU; Chords for Bari Uke and words by Lew Toulmin, April 2022

Chorus:

[C] Oh my darlin', oh my darlin'
County Court of [G] Caroline
You are lost and gone [C] forever
Evermore [G] for you I'll [C] pine! Last chorus: Dreadful [G] sorry, Caro- [C] line!

[C] In a tavern, on the Choptank
Was a courthouse, so [D7] divine!
It was a port house, and a [G] tort house
Where you [D7] could sue, then [G] wine and [C] dine! CHORUS

[C] On the ferry, oh so merry,
Crossed the river on [D7] a line
All the bailiffs and the [G] wail-iffs,
Loved [D7] their [G] Barwick's, of Caro- [C] line. CHORUS

[C] Strong beer, just four shillings
For a gallon, oh [D7] so fine
Fourteen shillings, with no [G] spillings
For [D7] that much [G] rum, at Barwick's [C] sign! CHORUS

[C] But for the horrid, crime of drunkenness
Please be careful, I do [D7] opine
If just a field hand, with no [G] land,
You'll [D7] get [G] lashes, thirty-[C] nine! CHORUS

[C] But where's that tavern? And that Courthouse?
Our crown of [D7] Caroline?
Did it slither, down the [G] river?
On a [D7] tide of [G] rum and [C] wine? CHORUS

[C] And you diggers, risking chiggers
What are you so keen [D7] to find?
Do you search here, just for cheap [G] beer?
Not [D7] to slake, your [G] scholar's [C] mind? CHORUS
